

Cool cat on car roof 7-county commission honors Selph

distracts motorists

GRANITE CITY — A cat perched on a car roof was indirectly responsible for one of the 13 traffic accidents reported Nov. 22 and 23 in Granite City.

Three of the traffic mishaps caused injuries, but none of those injured was seriously hurt. Rita A. Hennessey, 59, of the 2400 block of Jorden Avenue was driving north on Nameoki Road at 10:15 a.m. Nov. 23 when she saw a vehicle facing west on Cottage Avenue with a cat sitting on top of the car roof.

Hennessey stopped her car and got out to tell the driver about the cat when an auto operated by Valerie Swann, 25, of the 2500 block of Madison Avenue struck the Hennessey car in the rear.

Swann also blamed the feline on the car roof for distracting her attention from the traffic. She did not see that the Hennessey car had stopped, she said.

Swann sustained an injury and was charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Hennessey was charged with improper parking on a roadway.

An officer said the cat belonged to the driver of the car, a resident of the 1500 block of Cottage Avenue. The pet feline has a habit of jumping on top of the vehicle, the driver told police.

Richard G. Hodson Jr., 24, of Centralia was hurt at 5:42 p.m. Nov. 22 when his auto was stopped in a northbound lane of Nameoki Road, about 20 feet north of Amos Avenue. The vehicle was struck in the rear by an auto operated by Randall N. Burgess, 28, of the 2500 block of Parkview Drive.

Three southbound vehicles were involved in a chain-reaction collision at 2:20 p.m. Nov. 22 when a car driven by Larry W. Farley, 21, of the 4500 block of Walter Avenue was struck from the rear by a car operated by Cynthia A. Jordan, 32, of Bryn Avenue, authorities said.

Jordan attempted to stop, but the brakes on her car failed, she told police.

The impact pushed Farley's car against the pickup truck of Nathan R. Holt, 26, of Collinsville. Both Farley and Holt were stopped in traffic at the time of the accident.

Farley suffered an injury.

GRANITE CITY — Involvement with and dedication to youth during off-duty hours were cited by the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission in honoring Lt. Col. Ronald Selph of the Granite City Police Department with its 1989 "public spirited" award.

Selph was one of 10 winners from a seven-county area who received the annual "Involve" award at the November dinner meeting of SILEC's board of directors.

Sixty persons attending the event at Char's Restaurant in Collinsville were welcomed by Lester Campbell, SILEC president and a member of the Washington County Board. "Assistant Police Chief Ronald Selph was indeed an outstanding 'Involve' recipient," said J.W. "Skip" Bennett, operating manager and training officer for the law enforcement commission.

The honor is bestowed by SILEC on men and women who contribute voluntary services to the upgrading or enhancement of law and justice in the counties of Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington, Bennett said.

Among those nominating Selph for the award was the Board of Directors and staff of Coordinated Youth Services. The nomination was submitted jointly by Dr. Timothy L. Holt, CVS board president, and Donna T. Dainy, executive director.

Selph was commended for his 11-year service as a member of the CVS board, including two years as president. He currently is CVS vice president.

"Col. Selph has given us many hours of his off-duty time as a big brother/confidant to the many young people being served by this agency.

"His relationship with a large number of these young people has continued on through their teens and even after they have married and had children of their own," Dainy said.

"His warmth and understanding in his interaction with youth and his status as president of the Granite City Police Department have all been contributing factors in the positive development of these young people."

Selph received high praise from Police Chief Don Knight, who cited him for "spending numerous hours of off-duty time helping kids within our community."

He has given his assistance in coaching the Granite City High School track team and initiated personal visits to the driver education classes at high school.

"He has chosen to assist many young people in the Kirtpatrick Homes area, covering a broad range of needs, from lending money to lending a sympathetic ear," Knight said.

"He does this because he's been there and knows what it's like to be an underprivileged kid," he said. He joined the police department in May 1971.

Selph graduated in 1964 from Granite City High School and is a veteran of service in the U.S. Coast Guard. He attended McKendree College and earned a bachelor's degree in administration of justice.

He is an active member of the Crime Prevention and Awareness Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and a part-time instructor at Belleville Area College.

ASSISTANT CHIEF Ronald Selph of the Granite City Police Department, right, receives the "Involve" award for his extensive off-duty involvement with youth. It is being presented by Frank Thompson, SILEC first vice president, who is presenting the award on behalf of the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

Selph is a member of the United Way Allocation Committee, Granite City Rotary, Granite City Eagles Aerie 1126 and Edwardsville American Legion.

He is a former member of the Granite City School Board's Community Advisory Committee and a past board member and former treasurer of the Granite City Employees Federal Credit Union.

During his 18 years with the police department, Selph served as training officer for nine years, in addition to his other duties. He also has written three training bulletins for SILEC.

Individuals nominated for recognition are civic minded citizens, victim and child advocates and private professional and law enforcement practitioners, Bennett said.

Selph was presented the award by Frank Thompson, SILEC first vice president. Thompson is a member of the Bond County Board and a professor at Greenville College.

The other award recipients were Carole Scott of Cahokia, the Rev. Raymond Coleman and Liz Coleman, both of East St. Louis; Marjorie Wright, East view Heights; Eugene Daily of Belleville; Joe Girolamo and George Gillespie, both of Collinsville; Charles Barnett Waterloo; and Pastor Leonard Poe of Highland.

The acronym "Involve," used to symbolize the award, is derived from the words — Involved Volunteers Who Offer Law Enforcement Valuable Enhancement.

Burglary, tire-slashing charged against man, 20

GRANITE CITY — An admitted tire slasher also was charged with burglary when arrested Nov. 21 at the police station.

James Burton Blow Jr., 20, of the 2400 block of Adams Street was charged in a felony warrant with the Oct. 21 burglary of a storage shed at Yount's Market at 2459 Benton St., plus prowling and three counts of criminal damage to property.

Among the items taken in the shed burglary were 10 soccer balls valued at $700.

Blow was initially arrested on the prowling charge Nov. 17 along with a 14-year-old Granite City boy.

Juvenile petitions were filed against the boy, who was charged with eight counts of criminal damage to property. The charges against the juvenile also involved tire slashings. Det.

Michael Gagich said Wednesday. Vehicles damaged by Blow belonged to Ronald E. Pennell of the 1200 block of 27th Street, whose 1989 Dodge station wagon was in the parking lot at Granite City High School at the time of the incident; Dan Brown of the 2800 block of Yale Drive; and John Poscan of Princeton Drive, Gagich said.

The two suspects were alleged to have been active in the night 38 tire slashings occurred in Granite City.

Blow appeared in the Granite City court Nov. 21 and pleaded guilty to the prowling and criminal damage charges. He was sentenced to spend 90 days in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

A hearing on the burglary charge will be held in Edwardsville, court authorities said.

Burglars return to same home, hit it again

A man whose residence was burglarized a second time before he could compile a list of missing property from the initial break-in reported both incidents to police Nov. 21.

Don Snow of the 2400 block of Kilmurray Drive said he was burglarized between Nov. 17 and Nov. 19. He returned home Nov. 21 and discovered the house had been looted again.

Taken from the home in the earlier burglary were a 12 gauge Remington shotgun, a video cassette recorder, a .22 caliber Marlin rifle, a gold chain, a leather wallet containing $22, a 20 gauge Remington shotgun and a radar detector.

Also missing was a coin collection which included an 1849 penny, Indian head and wheat pennies, a gold Kennedy half-dollar, Bicentennial quarters, 20 Eisenhower dollars and 20 Susan B. Anthony dollars.

Stolen in the second burglary were a leather jacket, three skillets, a half-gallon of whiskey and a half-gallon of vodka.

Rings missing from auto

A diamond engagement ring and wedding band and a man's wedding band, all 14k gold and valued at a total of $386, were taken in a burglary of an auto belonging to Dennis Lee Reynolds of the 2500 block of Parkview Drive, he reported Nov. 21.

$85 khaki jacket gone

A man's khaki jacket valued at $85 was stolen while she and her brother were visiting at the home of friends in the 2900 block of Cayuga Street, Lisa R. Criss of the 900 block of Grand Avenue, Madison, reported Nov. 21.

Battery by man alleged

Joseph Peter Becerra, 49, of the 2400 block of Adams Street was booked Nov. 20 for battery after Marilyn I. Becerra, 34, reported being struck in the face. He also grabbed her by the hair and threw her to the floor, she alleged. He posted $102 bail and was released, pending a hearing.

Revoked license cited

Mark W. Carney, 26, of Fenton, Mo., was arrested by an Illinois state trooper Nov. 20 near the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge and taken to police headquarters, where he was served a warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of driving while his license was revoked. He posted $154 bail and was released.

Pellet strikes vehicle

David Kessler of the 2700 block of Harding Boulevard reported he was driving south in the 2100 block of State Street at 11:30 p.m. Nov. 17 when he heard something hit the window of his auto. He later discovered the right rear window on his car had been damaged by a BB pellet. Another driver reported a similar incident, police noted.

AN OPEN COURTYARD is the focus of the renovation at the American Village Shopping Center.

American Village gets half-million-dollar facelift

GRANITE CITY — Holland-Hinrichs Construction Inc. of Belleville has completed construction of the one-half-million dollar renovation and addition to the American Village Shopping Center.

The addition to the shopping center, at Nameoki and Fehling roads, has increased the total square footage by 17 percent to 27,500 square feet. The project included a 5,000-square-foot addition to the major tenant, a Medicare-Glaser store, and the addition of a 3,000-square-foot open courtyard adjacent to the store. Planters, landscaping and courtyard seating adorn the new outdoor area.

The existing mansard canopy of the shopping center was covered with a contemporary surface material to enhance the visibility of new signage.

Also located in the complex is the enlarged and renovated Ravanelli's Restaurant, Baskin-Robbins ice cream shop and the State of Illinois Job Service offices.

Holland-Hinrichs Inc., headquartered at 4495 N. Illinois St. in Belleville, provides design and building services for commercial, retail, industrial and multi-family projects.

Group opposes incineration plan

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

A newly formed environmental group is opposed to a portion of a three-county waste management plan dealing with incineration.

"It seems that community officials have been sold a bill of goods," said Sam R. Pessin, one of the founders of People United for a Recyclable Environment (PURE), which is based in Belleville. "The big trash companies get PR (public relations) firms to put it in a nice package, put it in a box, put a ribbon on it, and perfume it."

Pessin was referring to the construction of two incinerators, one in Madison County and one in St. Clair County, which is being called for under a draft of a waste management plan being proposed for the counties of Madison, St. Clair and Monroe.

The total cost of building the

"We've been looking all over the place, Florida, even Germany."

— Wade Brunsmann

two incinerators would be $205 million, according to the plan.

Pessin said the incinerators wouldn't be cost-effective. But more importantly, he said, they would be harmful to the environment.

"First and foremost, the environmental effects it will have all over Illinois, all the way up to Canada," Pessin said. "Wherever the wind blows, that's where the ash and gas will go. Also, what goes up must come down."

Pessin said he was disappointed to learn that St. Clair County Board member Wade Brunsmann, D-Swanton, chairman of that county board's Environment Committee, favored incineration. Pessin said he talked to Brunsmann at a Scott Air Force Base joint-use rally.

But Brunsmann said that he only favored incineration as a last resort.

"We've got to find some way to solve the garbage problem," Brunsmann said. "If they (the plan consultants) were able to come up with something else before then, I'd sure be in favor of it."

Brunsmann added that the construction of incinerators wouldn't begin for almost another decade, if ever.

If incinerators are built, they will have to strictly conform to Illinois Environmental Protection Agency standards regarding emission of pollutants, he said.

"I think he'll (Pessin) be very well satisfied," Brunsmann said.

"We're looking at the very latest state-of-the-art technology, smokeless stacks. We've been looking all over the place, Florida, even Germany."

Pessin said PURE wants to work with, not against, government officials.

"What we're trying to do is show them the other side of the coin," he said. "We want to work with them; we don't want to fight them."

Pessin said his group is encouraging recycling, reusing garbage, and composting as alternatives to incineration.

But Brunsmann said those three options, which are also mentioned in the waste plan, aren't enough to handle the area's increasing garbage.

"The trash we're going to burn is bigger stuff, plastics and the like," he said. "Still, the residue that will be left over will have to be put into landfills."

Base closings leave Scott's future uncertain

A proposal to close 15 U.S. Air Force bases nationwide will have an uncertain effect on Scott Air Force Base, said Brian Lott, a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello of Belleville.

However, the closing of other bases would probably not threaten Scott AFB and could mean personnel expansion for the local Air Force base, Lott said.

"It's really too early to tell because U.S. Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney has indicated that is one proposal he will offer to save money in the defense program (from 1992 through 1994)," Lott said. "That decision itself is not final and he has in no way indicated what bases would be closed or where they will be."

But a retired Air Force general said Wednesday that the proposal to convert Scott into a joint-use civilian and military airport has made the air base indispensable to the Air Force.

"By developing the facility, this solidifies the presence of the Air Force in Illinois, it solidifies the viability of the Air Force in Illinois," said retired Gen. Bob Coverdale, who has been serving as the chairman of an Illinois Department of Transportation committee working on the joint use plans. "We never wanted to do anything to affect that."

Coverdale said Air Force representatives informed him of their feelings during a Nov. 14 meeting in Belleville.

"We're going to build an international airport out here, looking out 50 to 75 years," he said. "We're doing this for the people of southwestern Illinois."

Because of the high chain of command at Scott Air Force Base, it is unlikely that it would be targeted for closing, Lott said. He noted that Scott AFB is the international headquarters for the Military Airlift Command which is responsible for several missions that serve the Air Force and Department of Defense.

"It's been an essential part of the Air Force program for a long time," Lott said.

He added that if 15 bases close, some of the services provided at those bases could be transferred to Scott AFB.

"It could result that they could have more personnel over there (at Scott AFB) because of other base closings," he said.

The base closings would be part of a proposal from Cheney to cut $180 billion in defense spending from 1992 to 1994.

According to published reports, the federal deficit and respond to reforms in Eastern Europe.

Legislators urge restraint in reactions to El Salvador

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Area legislators condemned the taking of American hostages in an El Salvador hotel, but warned that the United States should not take rash steps against the country's embattled government despite suspicions it aided the recent murder of six Jesuit priests.

"We now know the communist guerrillas are violent criminals who are willing to sacrifice innocent civilians in their attempt to overthrow the democratically elected government," said Sen. Christopher S. "Kit" Bond, R-Mo. "We need to demand that the (President Alfaro) Christiani government do a thorough and aggressive investigation to bring to justice whoever did the killing and we need to make that demand clear, but we cannot lessen our support for a democratically elected government."

Rep. Jack Buechner, R-2nd Dist. of Kentucky, Mo., agreed, calling upon the U.S. government to give Christiani's regime a chance to discover and prosecute whoever murdered the Jesuits.

"Hostage taking is a traditional terrorist way to get attention," Buechner said, adding that he does not think that development will significantly affect U.S. policies.

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., co-sponsored a Senate resolution condemning the violence in El Salvador, but said he would not support cutting U.S. aid unless there is proof atrocities were government sponsored.

Reps. Glenn Poshard, D-22nd Dist. of Carterville, Ill., and Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, believe the United States should make nonessential American civilians leave volatile El Salvador.

"This is just another example of our president's reactive leadership style that we have not had the foresight to get people out of there who have no business being there," Poshard said.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., said administration policies are misguided and the United States should not be led more deeply into military involvement on an unwinnable civil war.

"The answer is to push, and push hard, for a negotiated solution among the parties in El Salvador," Simon said.

Added Rep. William L. Clay,

D-1st Dist., of north St. Louis, "We certainly must not increase aid to their present government, which is apparently not capable or willing to deal with the kind of immorality that exists within its own system and encourages death squads to roam throughout its society."

Senate told economic success stories

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Most of the news heard Nov. 21 by a state senate committee on economic growth was not good, but committee members did hear several success stories.

"Until a few years ago, our largest employer had been a nursing home," said Paul Wilke, mayor of Nashville, Ill. "Since then, we have created close to 800 jobs, and that's not bad for a little community of 3,200."

Wilke was one of the city officials who told the Senate Committee on Commerce and Economic Development about good economic results in recent times. The committee is chaired by State Sen. Richard Newhouse, D-Chicago, and includes State Sens. Ken Hall, D-East St. Louis, and Frank Watson, R-Greenview. The stories of Wilke and others ers were in stark contrast to the bleak picture painted by officials of East St. Louis and some nearby cities concerning desperate financial crises faced by those communities.

Wallace B. Carson, director of the East St. Louis Development Authority, said several area cities are among the top 10 poverty stricken areas in the country, based on per capita income.

In addition to the 800 new jobs in Nashville, a city official from Vandana and an administrator with a company based in Alton told the committee about their economic booms.

THIS CHRISTMAS, GIVE A GIFT THAT SOMEONE WILL OPEN UP AND HIDE IN THE ATTIC.

Or in the cellar. Or even behind a wall.

In fact, your gift will be used wherever a poverty-level home needs some insulation.

It's all part of a weatherization project sponsored by the Energy Assistance Foundation.

Right now, volunteers are busy caulking broken windows and weather-stripping around doors.

They're even giving a needy person's water heater a jacket.

But all of this costs money. Of course, at Illinois Power, we wouldn't ask you for a contribution without contributing something ourselves. So, for every dollar that you give to the Energy Assistance Foundation, we'll match it.

So please give what you can.

It'll leave you with a warm feeling. And it'll leave them with a warm home. ©1989 Illinois Power Company

Support urged for tax accountability

To the editor:

"Let the government do for the people what the people can do for the government," Gen. Omar Bradley once said.

Since 1974, 12 proposed amendments to the Illinois Constitution have been petitioned by referendum. Seven failed, five passed.

The Kansas Supreme Court ruled in 1987 that petitions initiated by voters in northern Kansas cannot include voter's signatures from southern Kansas. This law was established after Kansans had successfully circulated their statewide binding referendum. The organizations and the political action committees involved are still working on this case, new to Kansas politics.

In Indiana, when a PAC outside the two major parties won approval by voter referendum, they discovered it was too late, they had missed the deadline for turning them in. These third-party PAC supporters argue that the two major parties had an extra two to six months for campaign projects and the endorsing of candidates in several states, including New York.

Democrats may raise taxes. George Bush's "no new taxes" pledge is only good for one year.

The proposed Tax Accountability Amendment to the Illinois Constitution will be do two main things: (1) require a 3/5 vote of the General Assembly on revenue increases (more than 50 percent the vote presently used to raise our taxes), and (2) require new revenue committees to give the public two weeks notice and hold hearings before bills can be voted out of committee.

Registered voters in Illinois can be from anywhere in the state, as long as they are residents. The petitions must not mix the signatures of voters from different counties. Madison and St. Clair county voters, for example, cannot sign the same petition sheets. But all petitions are exactly alike. This makes the checking of signatures for validity much easier.

For free petitions and information on the Tax Accountability Amendment, contact Committee for Citizens' Government, 227 S. Airport Road, Bartonville, Ill., 61807. The telephone number is (309) 697-4625.

Airport board should reflect population

To the editor:

I live in Bridgeton, Mo., a lovely community of middle-class homes where a child can get on his bike and go just about anywhere without crossing a busy street.

We are being threatened by the expansion of Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

No, I am not opposed to progress. But my primary concern is the structure of the Airport Commission: eight voting representatives appointed by the city and one non-voting St. Louis County representative.

Samaritan made her day

To the editor:

All we hear is bad news. But I have some good news.

Saturday while shopping at Nations Food stores (I've read about this, but didn't think it would happen to me) I left my purse in the shopping cart after I put my groceries in the cart. It was getting dark, so I didn't notice it. Let me tell you that some very honest people seen it and returned it. I didn't get their names, but again, I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

A good example for the children that were with them. God bless you and yours.

Clearing up scouting membership questions

The following is by Mike Barrens of the Cahokia Mounds Boy Scout Council.

Many boys are not scouts due to some misunderstandings about membership. In an effort to clear up what may be some common errors, we'd like to correct some frequently held, but wrong notions.

These include:

You have to join at the beginning of school.

False. Although School Night for Scouting is conducted toward the beginning of the school year,

Our guest

you may join scouting at any time.

You have to be a Cub Scout before you're a Boy Scout.

False. Being in the sixth grade and/or 10 and one half years old is the key requirement for Boy Scout membership. No previous scouting experience is needed.

If you were of Boy Scout age

last year, but did not join, you can't join now.

False. Boys ages 10 and one half through 18 are welcome to join Boy Scouts.

I can't be a scout if I have a handicap.

False. Scouting is for all boys. Handicapped, better termed "handicapped," boys can gain great benefits from scouting. Scout leaders can receive training to adapt the program for the needs of special youth.

My boy's too young or too old to be a scout.

The ages to belong to the various divisions of scouting are: Tiger Cubs, first grade or 7-years-old; Cub Scout, second, third, fourth or fifth grade or 9, 9- or 10-years-old; Boy Scout, at least 10½ years old or in the sixth grade (upper age limit is 18); and Explorers, at least 14-years-old and have completed the eighth grade or 15 and not yet 21.

Make the holidays the "Season for Scouting" by encouraging your boy to join the fun and adventure.

Durbin knows non-smokers have rights as well

To the editor:

U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin, Democrat from Springfield, Ill., has really done it now. First, he was successful in 1987 by introducing legislation that imposed a temporary ban on smoking on domestic flights of two hours or less, covering about 80 percent of flights.

Now he has gone and got a new law passed by the House that would ban smoking on all flights within the continental U.S. and to flights of six hours or less to or from Alaska and Hawaii. The Senate will give final approval and the President will sign this bill.

Durbin claims he started his anti-smoking campaign because his father died of lung cancer from smoking and his mother developed lung problems as a result of second-hand smoke. He has pursued this fight against the powerful tobacco lobby and knows there are plenty of people who resent it.

He also is thinking about a bill which would challenge local and state school authorities to adopt no-smoking policies. Now he's picking on our kids.

David Benton, president of the Smokers' Rights Alliance, says that this ban "will infuse smokers with a new sense of outrage."

Why is Durbin doing this? He has already lost some support for reelection from some of his smoking precinct committeemen friends.

He has my support though. My hat is off to Richard Durbin. All the non-smokers who are tired of breathing second-hand smoke in all public places should be prepared for more anti-smoking legislation and support it. You see, my father also died of lung problems as a result of smoking, and I have friends who have developed lung problems as a result of second-hand smoke. I have also lost so-called friends because I won't let them smoke in my car or home. This doesn't bother me. I will continue my own fight and I know Durbin and men like him will continue his.

Daughter offers thank-you for fire-scene assist

To the editor:

I am thankful to the firefighters who salvaged the precious pictures and keepsakes from my mother's home the morning of Nov. 1, all that is left of a beautiful woman's home.

As we sifted through the rubble later, I thought back to the years when there were only three homes on that block and we could play hopscotch in the street because you might see two cars go by in a day.

I remember as a small girl going with her as she went door-to-door collecting for flowers when there was a death in someone's family.

She always put everyone else first.

For several generations she drove various neighborhood children to school.

Even as a senior citizen she has been a companion to numerous others through the Senior Companion Program.

She has been a valuable citizen to the community and thank God will continue to be.

I'm proud to be her daughter and cherish every day with her.

how much he and Trober had lost after first purchasing the fitness club eight years ago from Vince and Rich Saugat, owners of several nightclubs in the town that bears their name.

Cox and Trober had filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in August 1988. Their attorney, Steven Mottaz, filed a motion Monday in federal bankruptcy court to dismiss the bankruptcy proceeding. Cox said they are looking for buyers for the building.

Renaissance is the fourth area club in three years to close and transfer its membership to Spartan.

The most recent was the Sporting Images Health and Fitness Center in Glen Carbon, which closed March. Last week, an agreement was reached between its owner and the Illinois Attorney General's office by which either restitution would be made or the memberships transferred to Spartan.

Cox said he has an unspecified minority position in Trober's Panama Jax, a Collinsville nightclub. He said he would concentrate now on that and his position as executive director at Panama Jax.

Cox said that at least the nightclub was "doing wonderful," having just logged its "best" four days of business" since it reopened two and a half years ago.

next 18 to 24 months, he said. A cost of approximately $180 million to $200 million is estimated for engineering, land acquisition, utility adjustments and construction.

The $55 million now appropriated for the work over a five-year time period does not cover paving, but it does include acquisition, engineering, grading and bridge work, said James Pennekamp, executive director of the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois, a regional growth agency.

According to Pennekamp, the already good-looking piece of commercial property at the 255-270 interchange now looks even better. "Obviously it enhances that area significantly. The important thing was getting I-255 completed. The extension simply increases the accessibility of that interchange from points north."

The committee has said it will likely have a proposal to bring before the Madison County Board by mid-January.

George Arnold of the local chapter of the Sierra Club, an environmental group, outlined what he termed an "alternative plan based on the Sierra Club positions."

Lawmakers encourage start-up of 'Adopt-A-Highway' program

A resolution recently introduced in the Illinois House calls for the creation and implementation of an Illinois "Adopt-A-Highway" program enabling local organizations to participate in highway beautification and cleanup efforts, said state Rep. Stephens, R-Troy.

"Each year, the state spends millions of dollars to collect the trash left behind by unconcerned citizens and visitors. We believe it would be beneficial to help volunteer groups not only become more involved in the state's efforts to keep our roadways clean, but to help beautify Illinois that most travelers see as they pass through our state," Stephens said.

"Several other states, including Missouri and Texas, have already initiated 'Adopt-A-Highway' programs with great success. Under Missouri's program, for example, civic organizations may 'adopt' a section of highway in rural areas and take responsibility for litter pickup, as well as natural grass planting and shrub care," Stephens said. "We believe the state of Illinois would benefit from a similar program to involve the public in clean-up and maintenance efforts."

Rep. Bill Black, R-Danville, is urging the Illinois Department of Transportation to develop an Illinois "Adopt-A-Highway" program to allow private citizens to support IDOT's anti-litter effort.

Henson wins 100th as skaters go to 3-2

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Even as Garry Henson tries to find the right combinations for the Warriors hockey team, he reached a milestone over the weekend.

Henson picked up the 100th win of his career in a 4-1 triumph over Francis Howell on Saturday. Win No. 101 followed quickly as the Warriors stated east McCluer North 6-2 on Monday at Wilson Park. Granite City has won its last three games — all within the North Division and is now 3-2 in Mid-States Club Hockey Association play.

"We don't get a lot of recognition from the public in general," said Henson. "But getting 100 wins just at the beginning of our eighth season is pretty good. That's about 12-14 wins a year, and we're not like DeSmet going all over playing 60 games each season. We play at league games and then the playoffs. We won five games the first year and nine last year, so we had some pretty good years in between."

Sophomore Mike Naeve and senior Matt Schnefke had two goals each on Monday while Naeve added an assist. Both of them now have nine points in five games. Naeve has eight goals and an assist while Schnefke has six goals and three assists.

"We're still not finishing our plays," said Henson. "We had the puck in their end all night."

Jeff Carrico took a penalty 17 seconds into the game and Schnefke scored from Naeve right off the faceoff two seconds later. Senior Bill Yarbrough made it 2-0 at 5:45 on assists from Kevin Stilton and John Cullbert.

Nathan Weaver picked up a minor penalty and a misconduct for checking from behind, but the Warriors killed it off, although Brad Piercy scored 53 seconds into the second period on a strong rush down the right wing.

But Naeve scored a shorthanded goal on a strong rush of his own at 7:25. Doug Crites made it 4-1 at 9:33. Chad St. Peters shot hit the post. Scott Nomm picked

Warriors 3rd at Crimson Classic

BRIAN SMITH goes over East St. Louis' Ian Stanback for a shot during Friday's game in Jacksonville.

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

JACKSONVILLE — Bill Ohlendorf missed his goal for last weekend, but not by much.

Ohlendorf hoped the Warriors could win three of four games at the Jacksonville Crimson Classic. Granite City got two of the first three, but fell four points short in a 53-49 loss to Jacksonville in Saturday night's final game.

"We dug quite a hole for ourselves in the first half but we showed a lot of character coming back like we did in their gym," said Ohlendorf. The Warriors (2-2) trailed by as much as 16 points in the first half, but came back to make it 37 after three quarters. But Crimson senior Lance Looker hit a pair of three-pointers early in

"We were really handicapped by John Van Buskirk's heel injury," said Ohlendorf. "He hurt it Friday against East St. Louis and he had trouble with it against Jacksonville."

Sophomore Brian Smith had 12 points against Jacksonville and made the all-tournament team. Skip Birdsong led the Warriors with 14 points against the Crimson while Jeff Smith was also in double figures with 11. Looker led Jacksonville with 20 points and Ben Baptiste added 17.

MADISON — The Lady Warriors had little trouble in their season opener on Monday, jumping out to a big early lead and beating Madison 53-29.

It was 21-5 after the first quarter and Granite City cruised in from there. Senior Priscilla Meyenburg led the way with 12 points as nine Lady Warriors dented the scoresheet. Center Jennifer Cavaness was the only other one in double figures as she scored 10 points and pulled down 12 rebounds.

Michelle Bequette had eight points and Andria Cline had seven while Addie Lenzi picked up eight steals. Vanetta Jackson had 11 points and Marvis Jones had nine for the Trojanettes (0-1). The game was 33-14 at halftime and 47-23 after three quarters.

Granite City was to play at Alton on Tuesday before opening the home schedule Wednesday against Edwardsville at Memorial Gymnasium. Junior varsity and freshman action begins at 6 p.m. The Trojanettes host Staunton on Thursday at 6 p.m.

East Side, Althoff roll to easy state championship wins

Flyers smash Thornton 55-8

NORMAL — It was pure mutilation. The Flyers exploded for 560 yards of total offense and routed Harvey Thornton 55-8 on Saturday at Hancock Stadium to win the Class 6A state championship. It was the fifth state title for East St. Louis (14-0) in 11 years and its first since 1965. The Flyers did it with a solid all-around effort. And in the process, they set a new state record for margin of victory (47 points), breaking their own record of 46 points, which they set four years ago against Chicago Brother Rice (46-0).

The Flyer running game, led by sophomore Chris Moore (19 carries, 173 yards and three touchdowns) and senior LaGrant Suggs (eight carries for 123 yards and a pair of scores) piled up 391 yards and 27 first downs. Rolie Nevilles (6 for 10 for 165 yards and a touchdown pass) powered the aerial game. His main target was senior Kenneth Dunn, who had five receptions for 147 yards and a score.

And the defense, led by Dana Howard, completely shut down Thornton's high-powered offense. The mighty Wildcats were reduced to harmless kittens. They were limited to 99 yards of offense and six first downs. All-purpose senior Rory Lee, who came into the game with 2101 yards rushing and 27 touchdowns, was held to just 42 yards on 18 carries while never reaching the end zone.

"Individual players have never done well against us," said East St. Louis coach Bob Shannon. "It's the balanced teams that have always given us problems. But we were determined

Deep Crusaders roll past Princeton 38-7 for 3A title

By Scott Marlon

NORMAL — If you've been to the gym at Belleville Althoff High School, you've seen the Class 4A championship trophy from the 1980 football season in a big glass case. You may have also noticed the blank spot on the wall between some other trophies.

But that spot won't be vacant any longer, thanks to Althoff's 38-7 win over Princeton on Friday in the Class 3A championship game Normal.

"I'll have my carpenter friends come in here and put them to work," said coach Glenn Schott, admiring the new trophy in his office on Saturday after a pep rally at the school and a parade through downtown Belleville.

If anything, Schott seemed even more excited on Saturday about his team's accomplishment than he did right after the game.

"It was a great feeling in 1980 and it's a great feeling in 1989," he said. "I'm not just saying this because we won, but this was a great group of kids to be around."

Schott noted some differences and similarities between the '89 Crusaders, who had a 13-1 record, and the '80 team.

"In 1980, our offensive backfield was bigger and stronger," he said. "This backfield was quicker. Defensively, we had the same aggressive, hard-hitting style of play that has been a trademark of Althoff football."

Schott's latest team was blessed by depth at nearly every position. When junior halfback Hickey Thompson — then the area's leading rusher — was injured in the third game of the season, junior DaRond Stovall stepped in and gained more than 900 yards.

"It's a tribute to that young man (Stovall) that he came up to me and said, 'Coach, I want to try to run the ball,'" Schott said. "He had never played running back before."

Senior fullback Armandos Fisher, one of several transfers from East St. Louis Assumption High School, was Althoff's leading rusher with more than 1,300 yards.

"There could have been some animosity, but our kids accepted him," Schott said. "The players made an effort to welcome the three or four players we got from Assumption."

"It's a tribute to Armandos that he came into a new environment and a new system and did so well. There was a lot of pressure on him after Hickey went down. He knew he had to pick up the slack."

Cardinals take shopping list to winter meetings next week

The Cardinals will go to baseball's winter meetings this weekend trying to improve their starting pitching, add a regular player who can provide some offensive punch and find a right-handed hitter for the bench.

The meetings open Saturday in Nashville, Tenn., and here are some of the possibilities Cardinal fans can watch for:
The Mark Langston watch probably will continue. Langston claims he is in no hurry to make up his mind about where he will be pitching next season and beyond, and that delay likely will force teams to up their offers.

The key to signing Langston will be which team gives him a four- or five-year offer because the money, roughly $3 million a year, is going to be the same. The bidding likely will come down to the Cardinals, Dodgers and Angels. The hardest part for Cardinal management will be convincing brewery officials to go along with the length of Langston's contract demands.

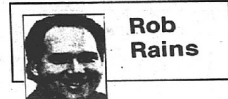

With the Langston question still undecided, the Cardinals likely will try to trade for a pitcher, probably Cincinnati's Scott Scudder. They offered Scott Coleman to the Reds at the World Series for Scudder and another pitcher, Norm Charlton. It's probable the two teams will talk again during the meetings and those names and others will be discussed.

Coleman's name likely will come up in other talks as well. While the Cardinals are committed to trying to trade him, they also are not going to give him away.

The Cardinals will make a big push for Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs. His name came up during the Cardinals' organizational meetings at the end of the season and the Red Sox are said to be willing to talk about trading him.

Coleman's name likely will come up in other talks as well. While the Cardinals are committed to trying to trade him, they also are not going to give him away.

The Cardinals will explore the possibility of signing free agent outfielder Robin Yount, this year's American League MVP with the Brewers. Yount has spent his entire career in Milwaukee and may not be serious about leaving.

But Yount also is a good friend of Ted Simmons, a former teammate and now the Cardinals' director of player development. If the Cardinals were to sign Yount, that would make it that much easier to trade one of their other outfielders for a pitcher.

Despite the injury to Todd Worrell, the Cardinals will not make any attempt to sign either relievers Mark Davis or Jeff Reardon, believing instead the key to their success will be to improve the starting pitching, allowing Scott Terry to move to the bullpen.

"We need a couple of starting pitchers and we need another bat," said Whitey Herzog. "We may have the bat if (Todd) Zelle and if (Willie) McGee plays."

The Cardinals learned last year, however, they can't count on injured players coming back and that is the basis for their push to deal for starting pitchers and another offensive player.

In the right scenario, almost anybody on the Cardinals could be dealt. The most likely untouchables are Joe Magrane and Jose DeLeon, Zelle, Pedro Guerrero, Jose Quiendo and Ken Dayler.

The uncertainty in any Cardinals' deal is what other clubs will do, especially if many of the premier free agents remain unsigned. That may make it difficult for clubs to make trades and force most of those discussions to be tabled until later in the winter.

Chances are, however, the Cardinals will come back from Nashville with at least one free agent or having completed at least one trade.

Another free agent, former Cardinals catcher Tony Pena, likely will decide to sign with either the Philadelphia Phillies or the Boston Red Sox.

Pena likes the fact he knows several members of the Phillies' organization, and he believes the club is just a couple of players away from being a contender. He also remembers that Boston tried to trade for him in August, and that showed him that they want him.

Like other free agents, Pena is not in any hurry to make up his mind and his decision could be finalized by watching what other moves the two clubs make during the meetings.

•Althoff

Senior quarterback Bernie Ysura threw for a school-record 17 touchdowns, including 11 to senior tight end Jim Abernathy. "Bernie had a great deal of confidence in Abernathy," Schott said. "They attended a camp together last summer."

While the offense scored 50 points, the defense limited opponents to 132 points.

"We had a lot of fun with the Judge, the Jury and the Executioner (linebackers John Gula, Steve Gornic and Matt Gornic) and the 'Rover Back' (Pat Conreaux)," Schott said.

Schott listed several key points in Althoff's season.

"One big factor was the way we came back after the Hazelwood East game," he said of the Crusaders' 35-0 win over Belleville East after a 39-21 season-opening loss. We could have won that first game. It was just a matter of turnovers and missed opportunities. We felt we had to win two of our first three games in order to hang in there for the playoffs.

"Our sixth win over Edwardsville (33-6 on Oct. 13) solidified our position for the playoffs. Then there was the very emotional win over Paducah Tighman (then the top-ranked team in Kentucky, by a 14-0 score on Oct. 21). They were a great team, but they took us lightly."

Schott, like most Althoff players and fans, is tired of hearing how parochial schools have an unfair advantage over public schools of the same size. Princeton coach Randy Swinford brought up the topic again after Friday's game, accusing the parochial schools of recruiting players.

"People say we're a 6A team playing 3A schools," Schott said. "Our enrollment says we're 3A, but we choose to play a bigger schedule."

"If anybody wants to trade for that schedule, they can have it. We could have gotten knocked off at any time."

Althoff may have a good chance of claiming another state title next season. The Crusaders' 49-player varsity roster includes 24 juniors and six sophomores. Althoff's sophomore team was unbeaten.

"If all our young kids keep their heads screwed on straight, we'll be OK," Schott said. "They'll have to know everybody will be shooting for them."

"If Hickey returns to form, we could be very decent."

•Flyers

not to let Lee beat us."

"Our defensive coach (John Davis) told us to stay in our lanes," said Howard. "He told us Lee was a cutback runner, but if we shut down the openings by covering the lanes he wouldn't have anywhere to go."

"Our guys were determined to win the state title," said Shannon. "Since last year, when we stood at this platform in defeat, we felt we had enough people to get back here."

"We didn't want to get into the Illinois record books as the first team to lose three straight title games after winning three in a row," said Dunn. "That was the inner intensity we needed to win this game today."

"We had tears in our eyes after losing the title last season," said Neville. "So we had the drive to work hard during the off-season to get back here. We wanted to turn those tears into a moment of joy."

The Flyers got out of the gate quickly. They marched 75 yards in 12 plays on the opening possession and scored on Neville's one-yard run. Following a Thornton punt, the Flyers increased the margin to 14-0 when Neville threw a 62-yard scoring strike to Dunn.

But the Flyers, who were penalized 12 times for 103 yards, let Thornton back into the game. Following a motion penalty, Kyle Johnson blocked Willie Fox's punt deep in Flyer territory and the Wildcats recovered at the one.

Two plays later, following a motion penalty against Thornton, quarterback Floyd Coleman threw a six-yard touchdown pass to Barry Starks. Coleman then ran in the two-point conversion and that cut the lead to 14-8. But the Flyers took the ensuing kickoff and marched 67 yards in nine plays. Moore capped off the drive with a seven-yard run and the Flyers took a 21-8 lead at the intermission.

Then East St. Louis put the game away by scoring 21 unanswered points in the third period.

"I told our kids the critical point of the game would be the first five minutes of the second half," said Shannon. "Our goal was to take time off the clock while keeping the ball away from Lee. But we managed to score in the process, which put (Thornton) into a deep hole."

"We felt we could win the game, but we didn't know what the margin of victory would be," said Dunn. "We felt we could throw on them, but why risk an interception when our backs were to the real estate?"

"We really wanted this, especially the seniors. It was our last year and we wanted to go out as winners. And our guys paid the price to be champions."

"This team has tasted adversity," said Shannon. "And they've had their feet in the fire. But they know how to react in those situations. The kids knew what they had to do."

"The Sandburg game a couple of weeks ago is a good example. We had our backs to the wall, but we put together a strong drive in the clutch to win that game. And that laid the foundation to our state title."

Tree planting bill boosted

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Missouri Republican Sen. Christopher S. "Kit" Bond has introduced a bill designed to improve the environment by giving farmers incentives to plant trees on land enrolled in a federal conservation program.

"This measure will stimulate reforestation of our nation's erodible farm land, helping to reduce the risks posed by global warming," Bond said in a statement on the Senate floor. "America should be encouraged to reforest our land, if we expect others to do the same."

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) was designed to reduce soil erosion by paying farmers to retire "highly erod-ible" crop land from production for 10 years, but only 1.6 million of the 39.6 million acres enrolled in the program are planted with trees, Bond said.

Bond's bill would ease ownership and planting requirements on land enrolled in the program and would authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to give longer CRP contracts and additional lump-sum payments.

Illinois missing U.S. funds

WASHINGTON — Illinois has lost federal dollars for everything from Medicaid to bridge replacement programs since 1981, a new report shows.

According to the Northeast Midwest Institute, a Washington-based research group, funding from the government's 60 largest grant programs fell by 22.5 percent between 1981 and 1988 in this state, compared to a 4.6 percent decline nationally.

Some of the hardest hit programs include the Construction Grants program, the Bridge Replacement and Rehabilitation program, the Interstate Construction program, and Urban Development Action Grants.

Illinois lost $779.5 million due to cuts in these programs.

The report was sent to members of the Illinois congressional delegation but has not yet been officially released to the public.

In all, Illinois' share of total federal grants fell from 4.95 percent to 4.25 percent during the study period.

The study predicted this downward trend would get worse in the years to come.

"Recent decisions made by Congress and the administration—cleaning up the Department of Energy's nuclear facilities, promoting NASA's $30-billion space station, and building the superconducting supercollider—will divert many of these scarce federal dollars away from Illinois and toward states in the South and West," the study said.

Because population growth in Illinois hasn't kept pace with the national level—falling from 5 percent in 1981 to an estimated 4.65 percent by 1990—the new census figures scheduled to take effect in 1992 will reduce the flow of federal funds into the state even further.

Representatives split on aid to El Salvador

WASHINGTON — Here are the votes of senators and local representatives on major legislation in Congress last week. A "Y" means the member voted for the measure; an "N" means the member voted against the measure; an "A" means the member did not vote.

SENATE VOTES:
1) Restrictions on aid to El Salvador

The Senate approved, 58-39, a move to table an amendment restricting the amount of money available for military assistance for El Salvador until Salvadoran authorities have concluded investigative actions, apprehended aid brought to trial those responsible for ordering and carrying out the Nov. 16 murder of six Jesuit priests (HR 3743).

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-Y
Simon (D)-N
Missouri:
Bond (R)-Y
Danforth (R)-Y

2) Congressional cost of living increase and ethics reform

The Senate approved, 56-43, a sweeping ethics package that would provide the Senate a 9.2 percent cost of living increase in 1990 and reduce the limit on speaking fees or honoraria by the same amount. The bill also includes new rules regarding travel, post-employment lobbying restrictions, and financial disclosure of outside income. Senators did not vote to give themselves as large a pay-hike as did their colleagues in the House. (HR 3660)

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-Y
Simon (D)-N
Missouri:
Bond (R)-Y
Danforth (R)-N

HOUSE VOTES:
1) Restriction on aid to El Salvador

The House rejected, 194-215, a move to continue debate on an amendment withholding 30 percent of El Salvador's $85 million in military aid until next April, presumably enough time to investigate culpability in the Nov. 16 murder of six Jesuit priests (HR 3743).

ILLINOIS:

bluegrass clippings removed from a 1,000 sq. foot lawn area contains 5.7 pounds of nitrogen, 0.6 pounds of phosphorus and 3.4 pounds of potassium.

Why not return it to the lawn by leaving the clippings on the lawn?

Grass clippings normally breakdown rather quickly in the lawn. There is some indication that clippings may start to release nutrients back to the soil in as little as two weeks.

The benefits to the lawn from returning grass clippings may come rather quickly.

Many newly constructed homes end up with the soil dug out of the crawl space or basement being spread over the lawn area. This normally results in a lawn that contains a high amount of clay subsoil instead of topsoil.

Returned grass clippings will help build up the organic matter content of this type soil over a period of years.

The following column is provided by the Extension office of the University of Illinois.

Beginning July 1, 1990, sending landscape litter to a landfill will not be an option. This law is in response to landfills that are near capacity.

What can homeowners do with their grass clippings if they can't send them to the landfill? Consider leaving the grass clippings on the lawn.

Returning grass clippings to a lawn has several benefits. First, clippings can return substantial amounts of nutrients to the soil for future turf use.

If a homeowner is following a very low fertility program, the bluegrass clippings removed from 1,000 square feet of lawn over a one-year period contain 1.6 pounds nitrogen, 0.12 pounds phosphorus and 0.7 pounds of potassium.

If the homeowner is following a high fertility program, the

St. Kitts offers Caribbean paradise

By Randy Mink
For the Journal

Fields of waving sugar cane roll across St. Kitts, a breezy Caribbean island. Bright tropical flowers, along with banana, breadfruit, mango and papaya trees, accent sleepy villages where children gnaw cane stalks and floppy-eared goats lounge on the doorsteps of pastel doll-houses.

In the cool, green mountains, thousands of monkeys scamper in jungles verdant with ferns and orchids.

St. Kitts seems to have everything a Caribbean paradise should have, with colorful history to boot. The lush volcanic island often is compared to Hawaii.

Though tourism rivals sugar as the main industry, St. Kitts still is a sweet, sunny secret, a quiet destination unspoiled by the outside world.

The mellowness of the Kittians puts the traveler at ease. Shopkeepers, hotel workers and townspeople genuinely like visitors and ask, "How do you like it here?"

Controlled growth, with a three-story limit on hotels, aims to prevent commercial tackiness. One area has been designated as the site for new hotels and condominiums.

Both Caribbean and Atlantic waters wash the sandy shores of St. Kitts, a former British colony in the northeastern Caribbean, not far from St. Maarten and Antigua. St. Kitts and Nevis, one of the Caribbean's newest nations, attained independence in 1983. Nevis is a smaller island separated from its sister by a two-mile-wide strait.

St. Kitts, discovered by Christopher Columbus in 1493 on his second voyage to the New World, officially is named St. Christopher. In 1623 it became the first English colony in the West Indies.

The French also settled here and helped the British massacre the Carib Indians. Then for more than a century, the two European powers fought for control of the fertile island. When cultivation of sugar cane began there in the 1700s, thousands of black slaves were imported from West Africa.

On a whirl around the 23-mile-long island, the traveler never forgets that sugar reigns supreme. Railroad cars and tractor-drawn trucks brimming with cane rattle across the landscape on their way to the sugar refinery in Basseterre, the capital.

Abandoned sugar mills, those beehive-shaped monuments of stone that punctuate so many vistas, remind one of an era when the cane was ground on stately British plantations. Tall chimneys, where the cane was burned, stand adjacent to the ruined mills. Today, modern plantations and resort hotels have been built around some of these old structures.

Taxi drivers giving island tours are happy to let their passengers out to take pictures of the romantic ruins and of school kids along the roadside. A driver also will get his guests some cane to taste.

The sugar factory is open for tours from February to July, the season when cane is ground.

The island's major historical attraction is Brimstone Hill, a restored 18th century fortress that offers views of the cane fields, rain forests and Caribbean Sea. Atop the windwept citadel, tourists pose with cannons, study museum displays and walk along the stone ramparts. On clear days, one can see the neighboring islands of St. Maarten, Statia, Saba, St. Barts, Montserrat and Nevis.

Photographers like Basseterre for its bustling harbor. Victorian architecture and women balancing baskets on their heads. Veranda restaurants overlook the Circus, a well-preserved example of a British town square, with its cast-iron clock tower.

Not far from town is the Frigate Bay area, where resort development has been concentrated on a narrow neck of land between the calm Caribbean and turbulent Atlantic. Several properties border an 18-hole golf course. A focal point is the casino at Jack Tar Village, one of St. Kitts' most complete resorts.

Those who wish more information should write the St. Kitts and Nevis Tourist Board, 412 E. 75th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

SMILING CHILDREN In the sugar cane fields rival the cameras of visitors touring the lush Caribbean island of St. Kitts.

Fast facts: St. Kitts

Location: 5 miles south of the Dutch island of St. Eustatius.

Temperature: 68 to 85 degrees year-round.

Flight service: TWA flies to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where travelers could make a connecting flight on another airline for St. Kitts, which is 45 minutes by air from San Juan. For current fares, see your travel agent or call TWA at (314) 291-5544.

Things to do: On organized hikes on Mount Liamuiga, climbers descend into a volcanic crater by holding on to roots and vines. The whole-day expedition traverses exotic rain forest alive with monkeys and tropical birds. Though monkeys outnumber the island's 35,000 human beings, most tourists do not see the creatures because they live in the highland forests. On the coast, however, is a primate research station staffed by North American scientists. Visitors are welcome on Sunday afternoons and by appointment. ("The monkeys can be traced to the French, who brought them over as pets.")

Another stop on the island circuit is the workshop of Caribbea Batik, where, in a quaint 17th century plantation house hidden down a jungle road, the ancient Indonesian art of batik is demonstrated.

The workers apply molten wax onto designs that have been sketched on white cotton. When the cloth is dyed, the wax insulates areas not requiring color. A bright magenta or turquoise dress might cost $45, a framed scene $30 to $100. Each piece is an individual work of art.

A branch of Caribbea Batik in Basseterre is one of the town's few tourist shops. Other local handicrafts include banana- and palm-fiber mats and coconut-shell bird feeders. Or pick up a jar of mango or pineapple jam.

Lodging: Discerning travelers prefer the small inns scattered throughout the island. Rawlins Plantation, on the grounds of a former sugar estate, has only eight rooms, two of them in a sugar-mill tower.

In the fishing village of Dieppe Bay, the Golden Lemon is a cozy inn that occupies an old warehouse furnished exquisitely with Victorian antiques collected by its owner, a former decorating editor of House and Garden magazine.

Superpower chiefs missed boat on summit

President George Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev are going to have a summit, but it's not a summit meeting. Progress toward a greater understanding between the superpowers continues. Hurray.

But if a relaxed environment in which to hold discussions is the idea behind the Dec. 6 and 7 meetings, why in the world are they holding this affair on two military ships?

Yeah, folks can really let their hair down on an aircraft carrier. Very relaxing.

No, Bush's staff missed a golden opportunity to provide our biggest world leaders with a chance to discuss important issues while enjoying some R&R.

If a promise for a better tomorrow is important to these men, the meeting should have been on one of the Love Boats.

What better place to cultivate friendships than on a cruise? Wouldn't it make history for Bush and Gorbachev who hold their future in their hands, to embrace and announce a plan for permanent peace on the deck of a Love Boat?

You bet your borsch.

The culinary staff could serve their usually fine cuisine. A typically American high cholesterol dinner—rare prime rib, potatoes, vegetables dripping in butter—could be the fare the first night at sea.

Russian folk dancers could entertain in the show lounge after dinner the first night; a revival of "George M!" could be the finale.

I feel a chorus of "We Are the World" swelling up in my throat.

Celebrities are frequent passengers on the Love Boats. Actors and actresses, authors, famous journalists often sail during theme cruises, said Julie Benson, Princess Cruises spokesman. Princess Cruises is the real collective name of the Love Boats.

Security would be tightly controlled for a summit cruise, but Benson was quick to add that the cruise is always taken seriously on any Princess voyage. Still, being heads of state and all, if Bush or Gorbachev wanted a bon voyage party, the captain would comply, she said, giggling.

Sailing as celebrity guests with Princess, however, does not come without a price. Presidents Bush and Gorbachev would be expected to mingle with passengers, sign autographs, offer lectures.

If Bush only would have moved a bit faster with this meeting, the Dawn Princess or Royal Princess could have hosted the non-summit off the Italian coast. The guys could even see delightful ports in Spain, France, Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece.

But if the presidents have their hearts set on the Mediterranean, they should have taken the cruise on a Love Boat.

Oh, I forgot—this will be an arms-free, hands-on informal meeting. Well, maybe this spring, when the real summit meeting will be in the United States.

It's too bad the Love Boats were passed up for the December meeting. But wherever the location, let's hope some deeper understanding between the two countries is achieved.

Even though Georgie and Gorbie will not be on board, the Royal Princess will return to the Mediterranean next summer.

The newest Love Boat, Crown Princess, will offer five Mediterranean sailings before heading for the United States. Crown Princess is under construction in Italy.

Mr. President, did you know free air fare from Washington, D.C., is available on a Love Boat cruise? Give me a call if you'd like to know more.

reanean this December, the only ship in the area will be of the military nature. Cruise ships please the Mediterranean in October and head for the tourist-infested Caribbean waters.

However, Bush and Gorbachev are wise to travel before Christmas, which traditionally is the "soft" season in tourism. Revue showcases Webber's music

Composer Andrew Lloyd Webber has confessed to newspaper reporters that "I am a most intolerable person to know because I think and talk about music all the time."

The 41-year-old creator of "Jesus Christ Superstar," "Evita," "Cats," "Phantom of the Opera" and his latest musical, "Aspects of Love," seems like any other businessman, except when he breaks off conversations and starts humming a melody.

More often than not, the tune is unrecognizable, but a few years later it may well turn up in a Webber show.

Webber is the most heralded theatrical composer of his generation, the only one to ever have three shows playing simultaneously in New York and London. His prolificacy has resulted in songs that are substantial, hummable and memorable, and many of them will be included in "The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber in Concert," a unique showcase of his work running through Dec. 3 at the Fox Theater.

Performance times are 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday.

The production will be staged with a 37-piece orchestra and 24 soloists performing more than 24

Frank Hunter

hits from Webber's portfolio of musicals, which includes "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," "Requiem," "Song and Dance" and "Starlight Express."

The Muni is bringing a full-blown production of "Starlight Express" to the Fox from Dec. 5 through 10.

One of the principals in the Webber revue is former St. Louisan Keith Tyrone, who played in New York City in favor of playing in other major American cities.

Webber's musical styles have altered constantly during the past two decades. Whether he is writing songs around Biblical topics ("Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat") and "Jesus Christ Superstar"), a child's-eye view of trains ("Starlight Express"), or felices trisking through a garbage dump

Andrew Lloyd Webber
... music coming to Fox

"The tour represents the first time we have bypassed opening in New York City in favor of playing in other major American cities."

Webber's musical styles have altered constantly during the past two decades. Whether he is writing songs around Biblical topics ("Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat") and "Jesus Christ Superstar"), a child's-eye view of trains ("Starlight Express"), or felices trisking through a garbage dump ("Cats"), Webber always has managed to insert Latin, rock and Calypso beats into his scores, along with lulling opera, standard Broadway rhythms, and even smidgens of Le Jazz Hot.

Blunt self-assessments of his work occasionally surprise writers. He dismisses the score for "Evita" as "cold, cold, cold." And he insists that his popular innovations, unique synopses, sudden rock beats, are far less important than the melodies.

"A song without basic strengths, cannot include the other unusual touches that people notice and have come to expect," Webber said, adding, "box office grosses and profits alone do not concern me at all much. In the end what matters is the overall quality you provide the audience."

Judging from the public's response to "Aspects of Love," Webber appears to have still another money maker on his hands. And what kind of encore can be expected in 1990 from this "high, flying, aching" composer to borrow a lyric from the score of "Evita"?

Young closes decade with landmark effort

Considering that Neil Young's albums in 1980s have featured everything from rockabilly to techno-rock to traditional country to rhythm and blues, it makes sense that he had plenty of killer songs available when he got around to making a "real" Neil Young album.

Young's new release, "Freedom," is being hailed as premiere Neil Young album in the tradition of such landmark efforts as "Rust Never Sleeps" and "Everybody Knows This Is Nowhere."

The praise is well deserved. Young seems especially inspired on "Freedom," and his lyrics are charged with anger and disappointment.

Some of the songs address social concerns such as the futile battle against inner-city crime on "Crime in the City (Sixty to Zero Part 1)," and drug abuse in "Too Far Gone" and "Rockin' in the Free World." In the latter song, Young sings of a street junkie mother: "That's one more kid/that will never go to school/never fall in love/never get to be cool."

But "Freedom" also is about relationships. Songs such as "Don't Cry," "The Ways of Love" and "Hangin' on a Limb" examine love and how fragile it can be.

Musically, the album is no less inspired. In a couple of ways, it harkens back to "Rust Never Sleeps." For instance, the key song on "Freedom" — "Rockin' in the Free World" — is performed in both acoustic and electric versions, much as "My My, Hey Hey" was on "Rust Never Sleeps."

The hard-edged electric guitar sound featured on "Rust Never Sleeps" again is put to use on the tense song "Don't Cry," the Tex-Mex flavored "El Dorado," and in Young's cover of "On Broadway." (Yes, this is the famous song done by the Drifters.)

Nutrition,
Low Fat
Are KeysBy Lynn Venhaus
Journal Staff Writer

Before the annual homage to holiday eating begins, let's incorporate "light" into everyday eating. If we do so now, we won't be as consumed by guilt when we eat those tempting treats of the season.

What is light eating? The light approach is a sensible, balanced way of preparing foods using the basic food groups with clear, bright flavors instead of high-fat, high-sodium foods. Light food should be nutritionally sound, and low in fat, calories and salt.

Light eating does not mean tasteless. Healthy and delicious can be synonymous. The light approach is anti-fast food and anti-processed foods in favor of natural ingredients. Along the way, your tastebuds will become more in tune with a variety of flavors.

The proliferation of healthy eating choices at area supermarkets makes light eating less difficult these days. Fresh fish offerings and methods of preparing foods make healthy eating tastier and easier than ever. Poaching and steaming fish are two cooking methods that keep fish moist and tender without adding fats. Grilling and broiling are also excellent cooking techniques for low-fat dining. All the fats drip off during cooking and the results are juicy.

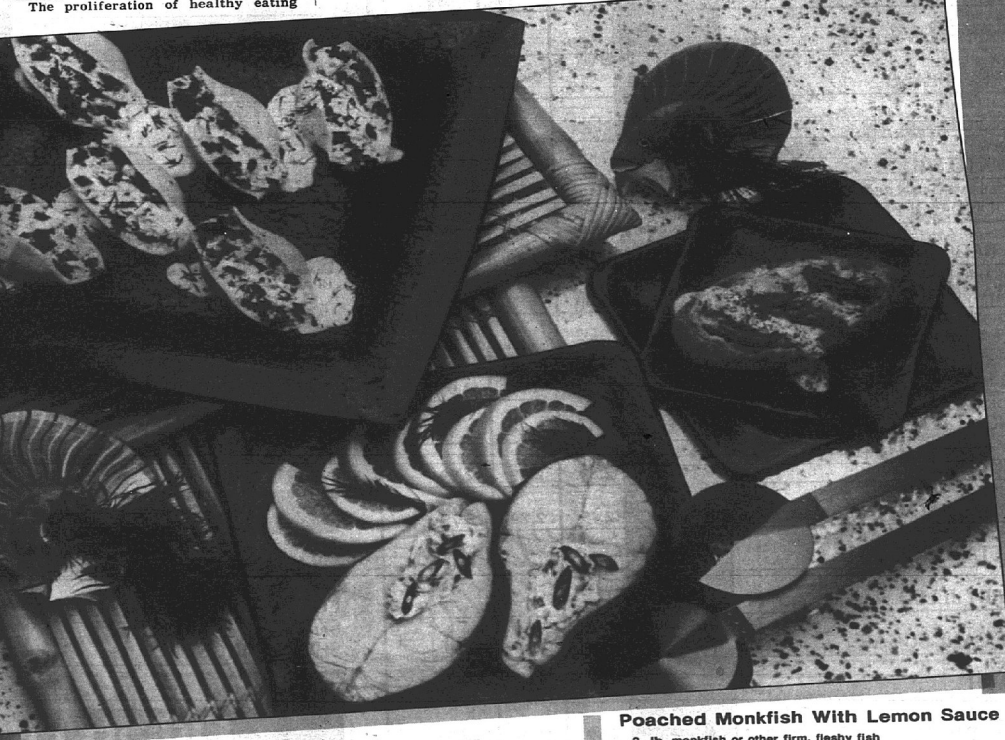

Taste is extremely important when dieting or just cutting calories. Usually, the first taste sensation missed is from high-fat, rich-tasting foods, the ones that have the most calories. But instead of foods drenched in sour cream or butter, you can fool your tastebuds with new products that satisfy cravings without the calories, cholesterol and fats.

In fact, the biggest improvement in light cooking is in the availability of substitutions. Low-cholesterol vegetable oil spreads are beginning to really taste like butter, as are those tiny butter-like flakes to be sprinkled on potatoes and vegetables. With these new ingredients, forgoing the real thing is not such a sacrifice. There are a number of reduced-calorie, or light, products that make cooking interesting.

Committing yourself to a lifetime of eating right can be a delicious experience if you choose ingredients wisely and prepare them well. After all, variety is the spice of life.

The American Heart Association and the American Institute for Cancer Research say the average American's diet is 33 percent higher in fat than recommended levels. It's time we started lowering that level.

Stuffed Potatoes Primavera

- 3 tbsp. chopped onion
- 2 tbsp. light cream cheese, softened
- 1 tbsp. flour
- 1 cup evaporated skim milk or regular skim milk
- 1 tsp. horseradish
- 2 tsp. parsley flakes
- 1/2 tsp. ground black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. ground celery seed
- 2 tbsp. plus 1 tsp. sprinkles (sour cream and butter flavor)
- 4 medium baked potatoes, hot
- 1 cup finely chopped cooked chicken breast
- 1 cup cooked asparagus tips or 1/2-inch cuts

Coat inside of large saucepan with nonstick cooking spray. Gently saute onion over medium-low heat, stirring constantly until tender. Reduce heat to low; briskly stir in cream cheese and flour to form paste. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly until smooth. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in horseradish, seasonings and 2 tablespoons of the sour cream and butter flavor sprinkles. Sift each pre-baked, hot potato lengthwise; spread open. Fluff insides with fork, sprinkling each with 1/2 teaspoon of the remaining sprinkles. Place potatoes in 7-by-11 inch baking dish coated with nonstick cooking spray. Fill potatoes evenly with chicken and asparagus. Top with sauce mixture. Bake at 350° for 10 minutes or until heated through. Makes 4 servings. (Per serving: Calories, 272 (244 with skim milk); cholesterol, 38 mg; fat, 4 grams.)

Stuffed Shells Genovese
With Dill Cream

- 12 large macaroni shells for stuffing
- 1 cup low-fat ricotta cheese
- 1 large egg white or 2 tsp. liquid egg substitute
- 1/2 cup finely chopped broccoli cuts, thawed and drained
- 1 jar (2 oz.) diced pimiento, well-drained
- 2 tbsp. finely chopped green onions
- 2 tbsp. snipped fresh parsley
- 1/2 tsp. ground black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. ground celery seed
- 2 tbsp. sprinkles (sour cream and butter flavor)
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- Paprika
- Dill Cream:
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- 2 tbsp. sprinkles (sour cream and butter flavor)
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
- 1 tsp. dill weed
- 1/4 tsp. ground white pepper

Cook shells in boiling water without oil or salt until tender but not soft (al dente). In medium bowl, beat together cheese and egg white until fluffy. Stir in broccoli, pimiento, green onions, parsley, pepper, celery seed and two tablespoons sprinkles; mix well. Spoon mixture into cooked shells. Pour milk into 6-by-10 inch baking dish coated with nonstick cooking spray. Arrange stuffed shells in dish; cover with foil. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, make Dill Cream. Combine all Dill Cream ingredients in blender or food processor. Blend or process until smooth. When shells are done, spoon Dill Cream over shells. Continue baking for 10 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika before serving. Makes 4 servings. (Per serving: Calories, 247; cholesterol, 24 mg; fat, 6 g.)

Poached Monkfish With Lemon Sauce

- 2 lb. monkfish or other firm, fleshy fish
- Poaching Liquid:
- Chicken broth to cover
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 lemon, sliced
- 2 sprigs parsley
- 2 sprigs dill
- 6 peppercorns
- Salt to taste
- Lemon Sauce

Place fish in large shallow pot and measure out enough broth to cover. Remove fish and set aside. Add remaining poaching liquid ingredients to broth in the pan, bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Add fish, cover, and continue to simmer for 5 to 10 minutes, depending on thickness of the fish. While fish is simmering, prepare Lemon Sauce.

Drain fish, reserving liquid for another use, and serve hot with the Lemon Sauce. Makes 4 servings at 342 calories per serving.

Note: Poaching liquid can be strained, chilled, frozen and reused.

Lemon Sauce

- 1 tbsp. vegetable oil
- 1 tbsp. arrowroot
- 1 cup chicken or fish broth
- 2 egg yolks, lightly beaten
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- 2 tsp. chopped fresh parsley

In small nonstick pan, whisk oil and arrowroot together until smooth. Add broth, whisk again, and cook over medium heat 2 to 3 minutes, until slightly thickened, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat; add 1 tablespoon of hot mixture to egg yolks; whisk. Add egg yolks to the hot arrowroot mixture, whisking constantly. Cook over low heat, continuing to whisk for 1 to 2 minutes, or until thick and smooth.

Add lemon juice and parsley to the sauce, stir well, and pour over fish. Serve hot.

Food

Plan a holiday house of feasts for eye and palate

By Janice Denham
Food editor

Decking the house from porch to stoop can be a holiday goal. Lorraine Bodger's bonus is the good times and delicious food that are sandwiched within the walls of that house.

In her new book, "The Christmas Kitchen" (Doubleday, $19.95), she has a friendly goal. "In order to be helpful (in the book), you must really get into another person's shoes," she says. "It is though I am standing over another person's shoulder and getting into their work plans."

Someone who starts a book with Christmas cookies must be a person who gets in the spirit easily.

"My grandfather was a big celebrator of Christmas parties," she remembers. "There were candies all over the house and lots of little people to enjoy them. From our vantage point, that was how we enjoyed the celebrations. Anyone can do that. I'm not an expert candy maker, but making them takes no special skills and no special equipment besides a candy thermometer."

The anecdotes of Christmas remembrances from her friends are charming. Her recommendations from centerpieces she used at last year's big bash to her sister-in-law's Christmas Eve smorgasbord — come from experience.

She suggests showing thoughtfulness in small ways to create a big impression. For instance, she likes to leave a small party favor for each dinner guest.

"It shouldn't embarrass your guests to the point they wish they would have brought a gift. It should be something small but thoughtful — maybe a small ornament, a few chocolate sweets, a gingerbread house against the wine glass. You can wrap up a few Christmas cookies, like jam-topped ones and chocolate bourbon cookies. Make it something for them to take home and remember."

Bodger promotes the traditions of Christmas as family occasions. Her 6-year-old nephew already has made a date with her to build a gingerbread house this year. She devotes a full page to drawings of decorated cupcakes using a recipe for Butter-Milk-Spice Cupcakes leavened with Brown Butter Frosting. Baked cupcakes can be frozen for decorating later.

"Children distinctly remember events like decorating cookies," she says. "They are so creative. Their imagination is unfettered. Placing raisins in gingerbread dough is an event for them."

Decorating a whole house does not have to be involved or expensive either. Candy canes, candles, small evergreens, bundles of cinnamon sticks, tiny ornaments and miniature toys and dollhouse furniture become centerpieces, gifts and wreath decorations.

She suggests coring green-skinned apples, inserting red or white tapers in the centers and tying with ribbon or gold cord. These can sit amidst a grouping of apples for a mantel decoration.

Utility candles can be set in individual muffin cups with melted wax or florist putty, then fresh greens and shiny balls used to cover the rest of the pan. Using a new muffin pan, this would make a handy present for Christmas that would stay useful for years to come.

Bodger suggests using up old spices by making herb and spice ornaments. First, ransack the spice shelves for whole bay leaves, peppercorns, seeds of all types, whole nutmegs and allspice. Begin by cutting white cardboard or mat board in simple shapes, such as diamonds, squares and rounds. Punch a hole at the top of each.

After planning a design, brush white glue on the cardboard, apply the chosen herbs and spices and let dry. Glue on a little bow, if desired, and thread ribbon or cord through the hole to use as a hanger.

She devotes a whole chapter to fruitcakes — not the kind that sit for six months, but varieties that are true to their name.

"I think most fruitcakes are not liked. What I really mean is I try to match the fruit and the nuts to the cake. I don't necessarily let them ripen. After wrapping them really well, I freeze them and use or give them away as needed."

Bodger also slashes yeast breads, which are not as sweet as many holiday items. She notes these are good for children to keep down the amount of sugar they consume over the holiday so their "high state of excitement" doesn't turn to tears.

For hostess gifts, she suggests forgetting about the mail and concentrating joyfully on making chutneys to keep in the refrigerator, and spiced nuts, yeast breads and tea leaves to stow in the freezer.

She suggests a hostess do as many tasks as possible in advance to prepare for an event. What should be done if there is not going to be enough planning time? Be sure to let guests help, she advises. Also, plan to pick up some complete dishes or ready-to-use ingredients for refreshments.

Buy and freeze as much as possible in advance. This can include perishable items like rolls.

A trick to hostessing while decorating is to let the holiday colors speak for themselves. For instance, a chopped salad can use a red and green theme. On a salad platter in circles or wedges, alternate sliced broccoli, red pepper, green pepper, tomatoes, cucumbers and chopped red cabbage. Serve this with spaghetti topped by a savory tomato sauce and the colors carry through an entire meal.

She suggests serving the salad with Lime Vinaigrette. In a food processor, blend ½ cup fresh lime juice, ¼ teaspoon or more salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, fresh pepper to taste, and ½ cup mild olive oil or ¼ cup olive plus ¼ cup safflower oil about 30 seconds until well combined. Adjust seasonings. Pour into jar with 1 clove garlic, split in half. Store in refrigerator.

THE ULTIMATE in convenience, a Bacon and Ham Pocket Sandwich takes on an ethnic theme.

Sandwich and salad increase time left for eating tradition

A sandwich can be considered the ultimate convenience food. While the Earl of Sandwich may have saved time for better pursuits like card-playing, contemporary meal-makers find it is a perfect solution to find time for other busy pursuits.

Sandwiches take on many shapes and flavors and can be tailored to individual preferences. These sandwiches and salads add a traditional touch of goodness to the home front or a carried lunch. Bacon and Ham Pocket Sandwiches combine flavors that start with barbecue sauce, then are layered with vegetables, cheese and meats. For healthier choices, select bacon, cheese and ham that are specially made lower in fat, cholesterol and sodium than traditional varieties.

Continue the ethnic theme with Greek Salads to sit aside the pocket sandwiches. If lunch takes the eater away from home, simply carry the dressing separately to combine with the salad just before serving.

Bacon and ham pocket sandwiches

- 3 or 4 (4 1/2 inch) pizza bread rounds
- 2 tbsp. barbecue sauce
- 2 reduced-calorie mayonnaise
- 1 small tomato, thinly sliced
- 1 small cucumber, thinly sliced
- 2 thin slices red onion
- 2 slices baby Swiss cheese
- 2 thin slices ham (about 3 oz.)

Cook bacon according to package directions. Cut pita bread in half. Line each half with lettuce leaf.

Combine mayonnaise and barbecue sauce. Spread mixture on lettuce leaves. Layer tomato, cucumber, onion, cheese, ham and bacon slices in pockets.

Wrap in sealable plastic bags. Serve within 1 to 2 days. Makes 2 sandwiches.

Greek salad with bacon

6 (oz.) bacon

- 2 cups torn romaine lettuce
- 1 cucumber, thinly sliced
- 1 small ripe tomato, cut in wedges
- 2 thin onion slices
- 1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese
- 2 tbsp. crumbled feta cheese
- 2 Greek olives, if desired
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 2 tbsp. brown sugar
- 2 tsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 pinch garlic powder
- 1 freshly ground pepper

Cook bacon according to package directions. Cool. Tear in 1/2-inch pieces.

Divide lettuce into two refrigerator containers. Place cucumber, tomato, onion, mozzarella and feta cheese and bacon over lettuce. Garnish with olives. Combine olive oil, lemon juice, vinegar, garlic and pepper in jar. Shake well to blend. Divide dressing into small take-along containers. Refrigerate salad until serving time.

Pour dressing over salad just before serving.

Write happy ending to meal with sweet, low-fat pudding

With heavy holiday meals soon to come, it is time to say a word of thanks for the lighter, healthier foods that can make traditional feasts delicious and nutritious.

Substituting low-fat or evaporated skim milk for whole milk, or replacing some of the whole milk with low-fat yogurt, will greatly reduce the fat content of puddings without altering their flavor or texture.

Rice pudding made with brown rice or bread pudding made with whole wheat bread are delicious ways to add fiber to a feast. Try pumpkin pudding in place of pumpkin pie for all the vitamin A goodness of the pumpkin, without lots of fat in the crust and traditional filling.

There is no need to be deprived of delicious desserts during the holidays. Just be aware of the fat content of favorite recipes and select more wholesome, but equally tasty, alternatives to high-fat ingredients. This delicious dish is at home as both a dessert and as a side dish. It has the texture and color of pumpkin pie and a sweet taste that is hard to identify as a single ingredient. While it takes some time to bake, it is simple to make.

Mr. McGregor's pudding

- 1 medium boiling potato
- 1/2 cup sliced carrots (about 1 medium)
- 1/2 cup canned peaches in extra light syrup, drained
- 3 tbsp. skim milk
- 1 egg
- 3 tbsp. brown sugar
- 1/4 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 tsp. cinnamon

Boil potato 20 to 25 minutes until cooked. Steam carrots until barely tender. Cut potato in small chunks. Add to blender or food processor with carrots, peaches, milk and egg. Puree until well mixed.

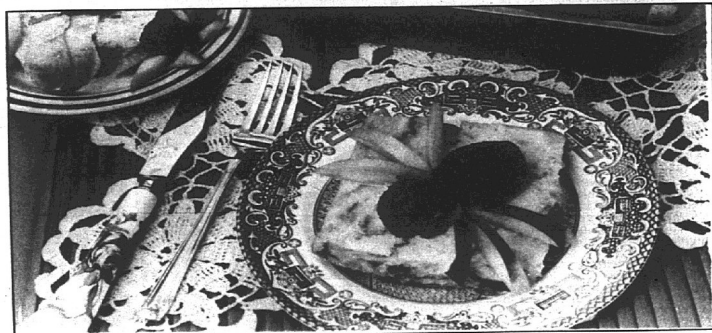

In small bowl, blend brown sugar, flour and cinnamon. Add to blender. Mix to a smooth batter.

Pour batter into small (8-by-4 inch) loaf pan or mold that has been greased lightly. Cover all pans tightly with aluminum foil.

Place in 350° oven 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours to steam pudding until fairly firm.

Serve hot or chilled; plain, with a splash of milk, or topped with fruit.

Yields four (1/2-cup) servings, 2 gm. fat and 128 calories each. Registered dietitian Karen Collins reviews this material for the American Institute for Cancer Research in Washington, D.C.

LET THE HOLIDAYS roll on, but put away the rolls until another occasion. Instead, let Swiss Onion Ring serve as the bread for any special or upgraded event.

Ring in seasonal holiday feast with bread served in round

The aroma of yeast bread baking in the oven invites friends and family to savor the holidays. Swiss Onion Ring is a wonderful treat for its aroma and a special boon for the cook because the dough is already mixed and bought frozen.

Tangy Swiss cheese, sweet green onions and poppy seeds surround pockets of tender bread that can be pulled apart for warming goodness. It enhances any meal, from roast turkey and meatloaf to ham sandwiches. It even can stand by itself as a filling appetizer.

It is easy to make with the frozen bread dough. Simply divide the dough in balls, dip in butter, layer in pan and top with an onion-cheese mixture.

Swiss onion ring

- 1 (1 lb.) loaf frozen bread dough
- 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
- 2 tsp. butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup (1 1/2 sticks) finely chopped green onion
- 2 tsp. poppy seeds
- 1/2 tsp. salt, if desired

Let frozen dough thaw until pliable. To thaw in microwave oven, place frozen dough in plastic bag or cover with plastic wrap. Cook on low power 6 minutes, rotating occasionally. Cut thawed loaf in 20 pieces. Dip half the dough pieces in melted butter, then arrange in bottom of greased ring mold or tube pan.

Mix together cheese, onions, poppy seeds and half of remaining melted margarine. Cover dough with half the cheese mixture. Top with remaining dough pieces dipped in rest of melted butter. Spread rest of cheese mixture on top, blending in any remaining butter. Let rise until double.

Bake in 375° oven 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown and bread sounds hollow when tapped.

Tips for holding the line on holiday indulgences

By Jacqueline Lankfer
Registered dietitian
American Heart Association

It is time to sit back with those holiday feasts, wear elasticized waistbands and enjoy the sweet season. Or is it?

Truly this is a time of celebration with huge dinners, holiday baking and parties. While many look forward to the season, others dread the many temptations to overeat and overindulge.

Regardless of the view of the annual holidays, a few basic principles apply to good health and nutrition every day.

Probably the most important consideration is the idea of moderation. Too much food and alcohol often become part of holiday celebrations. The end results of overeating often trigger unwanted weight gain. The key to moderation is planning ahead. For example, at a holiday party, plan to sample food offerings, but come determined not to overindulge.

Every person has different strategies to avoid compromising situations, so identify which will be effective. Here are some tips for balancing holiday gatherings with individual goals for good health.

- Do not fast all day before a holiday feast or party. A light snack at home may be a deterrent to gorging oneself after arriving at the gathering.

- Drink lots of water before and during the event. Keep in mind that alcohol is high in calories. Limit intake to no more than one or two alcoholic drinks. A second course is to enjoy club soda with a twist of lime or other non-alcoholic drinks such as a virgin mary, which is a bloody mary minus the liquor.

- Move around and mingle with other guests. Never stand at an hors d'oeuvre table. Take one or two items and move across the room to chat with someone. In other words, stay away from temptation.

- If the gathering is a sit-down dinner, take small portions and eat slowly. Do not overeat or take seconds just to please an insistent host or hostess.

- If dinner is served buffet-style and everything looks tempting enough to eat, take a third or a fourth of an average serving size.

- Do not neglect physical activity and exercise. If cold weather prohibits outdoor activities, find suitable indoor exercise.

Enjoy the holiday season, but remember that calories add up quickly. As little as an extra 200 calories per day will be evident visually on Jan. 2.

Elder abuse prevention program under way

The following was written by state Rep. Ron Stephens, a Troy Republican.

Each day on radio, TV and in the newspaper we're bombarded with accounts of war, disaster and horrifying crimes. While most of us try to keep up with current events and happenings around the world, sometimes we don't always realize what's going on in our own neighborhood or community.

For example, how many of us realized the frequency of elder abuse in this state? It's only been in the last five years that Illinois, as a state, has stepped to take a long, hard look at the problem. In 1984, the General Assembly initiated a three-year study to determine what could be done to protect better understanding of elder abuse, as well as develop prevention and treatment programs.

When the study was completed, many of us were shocked with its findings. In the four areas of the state which served as demonstration projects, more than 640 cases of elderly abuse were reported; 72 percent were substantiated. The victims ranged in age from 52 to 100, with the average age being 77. Sixty-four percent of the victims were reported to have chronic health conditions, and more than 90 percent were characterized by caregivers as disoriented. The typical abused senior citizen was found to be female, 77 years old, widowed and functionally impaired. Financial exploitation and physical abuse were the primary forms of abuse reported.

Our guest

Responding to the study's findings, lawmakers passed several measures to help protect senior citizens from abuse, whether physical, mental, emotional or financial. Among the new laws was one creating a statewide elder abuse program, involving a voluntary reporting system for suspected abuse and neglect of anyone 60 years of age or older.

Still in its infancy, the statewide Elder Abuse and Neglect Program has begun to be implemented in the same four areas the demonstration project was in 1984 — suburban Cook County, eight surrounding counties, nine northwestern counties and 13 southern Illinois counties — according to the Department on Aging. The local agencies in the areas now have the resources, both in people and funds, to address everything from physical and emotional abuse to passive neglect and financial exploitation.

According to the department, the program used the 1987 study results as its groundwork and has built on the legal, medical and social service system already in place throughout the state. Through the program, designated agencies have been able to hire and train staff that can investigate and assess abuse reports. In an abusive situation an agency or agencies could provide services such as legal assistance, housing, in-home care, respite or counseling. In addition, law enforcement or medical professionals could also be brought into a case.

For the first time since creation of the Elder Abuse and Neglect Program in 1988, lawmakers this spring passed a $1.6 million appropriation for partial year funding of the program, which the governor has approved. However, until more state funding is available, those areas not already involved in implementation will continue to address reports of abuse on an ad hoc basis, according to the department.

The Elder Abuse and Neglect Program is based on voluntary, rather than, mandatory reporting of suspected abuse. Anyone who suspects that a relative, friend, or neighbor is being abused, can call the Illinois Department on Aging's toll-free number at 1-800-252-8366 (Voice and TDD-equipped). The phone line is staffed from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The department will refer the report to the best agency.

For more information about local programs in their area, persons may call or write the Department on Aging at 421 E. Capitol, Floor 1, Springfield, Ill. 62701, or phone (317) 785-3356. Together we can ensure that the senior citizens of this state are spared the anguish of abuse.

Bridge design contract let

Campbell Design Group, an architectural, engineering and planning firm, has been selected by District Eight of the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) to provide engineering services for an Illinois Route 159 bridge replacement.

An existing concrete bridge located just north of I-270 and spanning Judy's Creek is structurally deficient. At one time, guards were posted to block truck traffic until the structure could be braced with additional steel members.

The bridge will be demolished and replaced with a triple box culvert. The design of this $1.98 million project is scheduled to begin this month, with a construction contract awarded in October 1990.

New gas pipeline prepares to open

Area natural gas carriers will soon have some competition as a new company prepares to open a pipeline that stretches from Sauget to the Alton area.

Illini Carrier, a partnership owned by Torch Energy and Energy Factors Inc., purchased an old Mobil Oil Co. crude oil pipeline which runs from Sauget to Wood River.

The company is converting the line to make it suitable for the transfer of natural gas, and adding sections that will connect it with an existing pipeline that runs through Marion County. It also will connect with Granite City Steel and several major companies near Alton.

Torch Energy is an oil and gas production company with assets in excess of $500 million, according to company literature.

According to John Gray, president of Torch Energy Marketing, the pipeline will be a common carrier line; other natural gas companies will be allowed to pay to use the line to transport natural gas.

Illini Carrier will also transport its own natural gas to serve major industrial companies, possibly including Union Electric, Laclede Steel, Jefferson Smurfit and Olin near Alton; the Shell Oil refinery near Wood River; Granite City Steel; and Monsanto and Cerro Copper near Sauget.

STACKS OF PIPE await connection for a new Sauget to Alton natural gas pipeline.

The line will not directly serve residential customers, although Gray said some residential customers may benefit from the increased competition among industrial carriers which serve local distributors, such as utility companies.

Gray and Bobby Shackouls, executive vice president of Torch Energy Advisors, are in Granite City to oversee the construction of the line.

Headquarters for the facility, named Mitchell Station, are located in the area known as Tank Town at the intersection of Morrison Road and Lakeview Drive.

When completed, the facility will house an office building, a warehouse and repair shop, and a monitoring station to control the pressure within the lines and distribute it in three directions: north to Alton/Wood River, south to Sauget and southwest to Granite City Steel.

The station will be monitored on-site during the day and by remote computer at night, according to Gray. Automatic shutoff valves will activate if at any time pressure builds beyond acceptable levels in any sections of the line.

The facility will employ about four or five people, including several maintenance workers and the site director.

Gray said the entire line will be tested by applying about 1,300 pounds per square inch (psi) of water through the line and holding it there for 24 hours to check for leaks. Maximum gas pressure in the line at any given time will be about 600 psi. All gas coming into the station from the Marion County line will be filtered to remove water droplets and microscopic particles before being sent through one of the three directional lines.

The company has so far removed four of the five crude oil holding tanks Mobil had installed at the site; one tank is being kept to hold the water for this test, and will be removed once the facility is operational.

Gray said the line is expected to be finished by Christmas and fully operational by February.

Document sheds new light on two battleship tragedies

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — A recently declassified account of a 1943 battleship turret accident could bolster the claims of a Marion, Ill., man who said the Navy hid the cause of the fatal explosion aboard the USS Iowa this year.

The 1944 Navy investigation of an explosion in the gun turret of the battleship USS Mississippi found that friction involved in loading the gun might have been responsible for the blast, a finding initially reached by Navy officials investigating the USS Iowa explosion.

Kendall Truit, the petty officer aboard the USS Iowa when the explosion occurred last April, has charged the Navy launched a smear campaign against him to protect the aging weapon system.

Truit became the target of numerous press reports implicating him in the explosion when the Navy discovered that his friend Clayton Hartwig, who died in the incident, had named him beneficiary of a $100,000 accidental death insurance policy.

When the center gun on the No. 2 turret of the Iowa blew up in April, killing 47 crew members, the Navy investigation's chief technical officer, Capt. Joseph Miceli, initially concluded that friction was the most likely cause of the Iowa blast.

But the Navy eventually abandoned the theory that the turret explosion was an accident and concluded that Gunners Mate Clayton Hartwig likely sabotaged the gun to commit suicide.

Testifying before a House committee this summer, Truit said the Navy's desire to blame the explosion on "human error" rather than equipment failure has "cast a shadow on me and my family forever."

"If the Navy admits fault than that may be the end of the 16-inch gun and maybe the battleship itself," Truit's lawyer Ellis Rubin told lawmakers.

Born and raised in Marion, Truit enlisted the help of his local Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-22nd Dist., to initiate an inquiry into the public affairs portion of the Navy's investigation.

In 1944, the judge advocate general of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance found after investigating the Mississippi blast that friction was a likely cause of the explosion, according to a recently declassified summary of the Navy's report. A copy of the summary of the Mississippi investigation was provided to States News Service by the television new show "60 Minutes."

The Mississippi explosion occurred while the ship was using its 16-inch guns to bombard Makin Island in the Marianas chain prior to an amphibious landing. Forty-two crew members were killed when the center gun on the No. 2 turret exploded.

The Navy, which has since cleared Truit of any wrongdoing in the case, released an official statement recognizing the personal anguish the investigation may have caused but denying it was the source of leaks implicating Truit in the explosion.

Rubin's law firm in Miami, Fla., currently is preparing a libel and defamation suit against those in the media who did not "check out their Navy sources" before printing certain articles about Truit, including stories about an alleged love affair he had with Hartwig.

Rubin said the Navy's decision to "suspend routine air, sea and land operations to review basic safety procedures" also bolsters his client's case.

Training for veterans available

Veterans are receiving free employment and training programs, leading to employment through the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

These JTPA programs include: on-the-job training, vocational (classroom) training, job referrals, job placement assistance and referrals to other agencies, and programs serving veterans.

Veterans may apply for the free programs if they are: Vietnam and Vietnam era veterans; service-connected disabled veterans; or veterans who have separated from military service within the past 48 months. To apply, veterans should have proof of address, proof of military service or proof of service-connected disability.

The employment and training programs give veterans a chance to find employment, develop skills, and learn of other available services and agencies working with veterans, such as the St. Clair County Veterans Assistance Commission, Illinois Department of Employment Security, and Veterans Outreach and Information Center.

The programs are free to eligible veterans under the federal-funded JTPA, which is an affirmative action/equal opportunity program. Veterans in the five counties who are interested in these training programs are urged to contact their county Employment and Training office for further information.

The numbers are: St. Clair County, 277-6790 or 396-6320; Clinton County, 394-4520; Washington County, 327-4191; Monroe County, 939-3332; and Randolph County, 826-4709.

Jamil attends symposium

Dr. Muhammad Jamil, M.D., of Lebanon recently returned from the 39th American Obesity and Associated Conditions Symposium of the American Society of Bariatric Physicians, which was held in San Diego, Calif.

The symposium covered new advances in the treatment of obesity and related eating disorders. The ASBP is the only National Medical Society whose members deal with the medical management of obese patients.

Some of the leading authorities in the country lectured on the subjects of obese patient treatment including nutritional habits, lifestyles and new behavioral modification techniques.

In addition, the physicians were updated on the latest health implications of obesity.

Jamil also recently attended a state of the art symposium on the Effective Management of Acute Post-operative and Post-traumatic Pain held in St. Louis. The symposium covered recent advances in pain control technology, regional analgesia and the organization of an acute pain service.

The faculty for the symposium, which included members from Seattle, New York and Sacramento, Calif., concluded with a question and answer session handling interesting challenges in the management of pain.

County board recognizes officials

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Three state legislators were recognized Monday by the St. Clair County Board for their success in passing legislation to promote airport construction at Scott Air Force Base.

Rep. Monroe Flinn, D-Cahokia, and Sens. R-DuQuoin, and Kenneth Hall, D-East St. Louis, were given plaques for their efforts to push forward three bills passed by the General Assembly during the 1989 session and signed by Gov. James Thompson.

One new law gives the county authority to sell an unlimited amount of bonds to fund construction of the project, estimated to cost $153.3 million.

A second law authorizes the county to acquire land within a 90-day period while the landowners are challenging the purchasing price in court. Two appraisers would be required to appraise any land worth more than $100,000. The county would be required to find a suitable place of equal value for residents relocated.

The third legislation gives the St. Clair County building commission the authority to oversee the building of the airport rather than an airport authority.

Flinn and Dunn were at the board meeting to accept the plaques presented by County Administrator Dan Maher.

"Without their help and dedication and long hours they put in, those three bills would not have been passed, and we wouldn't be sitting here today talking about an environmental impact study" (a final study which the base will conduct before airport construction begins), Maher said.

Flinn said the construction of an airport will bring great economic benefits to the Metro East area. He indicated that commercial expansion of the base will coincide with new additions to the St. Louis Lambert Airport.

"I think we will see tremendous changes in this area and will no longer be a step child to the St. Louis community but become a full partner," he said.

The project is expected to receive 90 percent of its funding from the federal government, 10 percent from the state and 10 percent from St. Clair County. The Scott Task Force of the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council estimates that joint-use will bring $896 million to the local economy in the next 15 years and create 3,500 airport jobs and 1,600 construction jobs.

Air Force proceeds with joint-use study

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — After more than a year of preparation and evaluation, the Air Force is now ready to proceed with its environmental impact study of the joint civilian and military use of Scott Air Force Base.

That was the message that retired Air Force Gen. Bob Coverdale had for the Southwestern Illinois Conference of Mayors at their monthly meeting Wednesday night. Coverdale has been serving as chairman of a joint use committee for the Illinois Department of Transportation.

"At this point, the Air Force has no problem with what we are proposing at Scott," Coverdale told the mayors.

Coverdale said local and state officials had to agree to 21 conditions the Air Force had set down before it agreed to go ahead with its study. The conditions, which include the relocation of the Cardinal Creek housing units and the two schools located on the base, are items which local officials had already made provisions for in their plan, Coverdale said.

"The Air Force doesn't want families living between two runways," Coverdale said.

Under the proposed joint-use plan, a second 10,000-foot runway would be built parallel to the existing runway. The new runway would be located where the Cardinal Creek housing currently is. The 1,050 units would be relocated to an area east of Illinois 158.

State and federal officials have also finalized plans for homeowners who live near the base and who would have to be relocated if joint-use becomes a reality.

"We intend to buy out all the families who live in this (4,000-acre) area," Coverdale said. "We want to assist them in finding someplace to live. We want to do this right. We don't want 1,000 noise complaints. It's going to be a good neighborly thing. We're going to create a lot of good jobs."

Coverdale said the land acquisition process, which should begin within 12 to 18 months, will be done in a way to benefit those having to move.

"There will be two appraisals of each piece of property," he said. "The land owners will get the highest of two appraisals. We will not negotiate between the highest and lowest and take the median. The relocation costs will also be paid for."

Coverdale said he has received mixed reaction from those who may have to relocate.

"There's some people who have said, 'we're ready, when do you want us to move', but there's others who have said, 'you're going to have a helluva fight on your hands.'"

Deputies get raises, two-year contract

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — After 11 months of negotiation with the Fraternal Order of Police, the St. Clair County Board agreed Monday to approve a two-year contract for Sheriff's Department employees.

The contract calls for a reduction in hours and a pay raise for employees, seniority bonuses and increased vacation for longtime employees.

The board discussed the terms of the contract in closed session and unanimously agreed to pass the new contract, subject to union ratification.

The contract is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1989, and runs through 1990. St. Clair County Administrator Dan Maher said the new contract provides that corrections officers will see a $2,300 pay increase over the two-year period. A $1,300 increase for 1989 and a $1,000 increase for 1990.

Deputies will receive a $2,500 increase during the contract term. A $1,500 for 1989 and $1,000 for 1990, Maher said.

Hours were reduced from 164 to 160 hours per month, which is considered a four-week work period. Employees who have worked at the department after five years would receive a $100 bonus under the new contract.

The bonus has previously been $75. Employees who have been with the department more than 12 years will also receive increased vacation time from three weeks to four weeks.

Maher said the contract took 11 months to negotiate because "there were a lot of different issues, a lot of questions of intent of language, so it took a long time to work through it."

Population drops in St. Louis, report says

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Population in the city of St. Louis fell by almost 80,000 from 1980 to 1988, dropping it from the nation's 36th largest city to 34th, the U.S. Census Bureau reported recently.

Other cities with large population losses in recent years include Cleveland, Detroit, and Milwaukee, while those with gains include Phoenix, Houston, Los Angeles, San Diego and Dallas.

Census officials blamed some of the recent declines in St. Louis to moves from the city limits to suburban areas, and general population shifts to the South and West.

Many southern cities grew because they were able to annex territory while cities in the Midwest could not, they said.

Dixon said U.S. aid helped Solidarity's rise to fame

By Edward Hearn
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon said Wednesday that Poland's move toward democracy was helped along by his effort in 1987 to funnel $1 million to the labor union Solidarity.

The Illinois Democrat said he and others pushed for the aid as a way to signal that the United States wanted to take an active role in developing Polish democracy.

"It was the very first demonstrable and realistic assistance to the then-outlawed union by the United States," Dixon said on the Senate floor.

"Who would have thought that two short years later the Polish government would be a non-Communist controlled, Solidarity-backed government?" he added.

Dixon's comments came minutes before visiting Solidarity leader Lech Walesa addressed a joint meeting of Congress, which greeted the Nobel Prize winner with rounds of thunderous applause.

In his speech, Walesa asked Congress to pass a new Marshall Plan for Poland so that Eastern Europe could enjoy "freedom, democracy and peace."

The aid program, he added, is the best investment in the future and in peace — better than tanks, warships and warplanes.

Commenting on the triumphal Walesa visit, Dixon said, "The Polish people continued to see in him what the Communist government feared most: He truly represented the people and was able to turn their vision into stunning reality." On Tuesday, the Senate unanimously passed an aid bill for Poland and Hungary totaling $738 million over the next three years to help the two Eastern European countries bolster their democratic reforms.

Poland will receive about 80 percent of the funding, including $260 million to promote private enterprise, $200 million for currency stabilization and $125 million in food aid.

Dixon said that despite the new U.S. assistance, communist leaders in Poland still had the clout to block reforms in place and others under consideration.

"We must keep in mind, however, that there always remains the prospect of the communists damping the river of democracy further downstream," he said.

Airline plan draws mixed reviews

WASHINGTON — A recent proposal by Sen. John C. Danforth to attack airline monopolies at airports like Lambert-St. Louis International Airport won praise from a small airline and a consumer group, but criticism from major airlines.

Representatives of Delta and American Airlines, who are accused of engaging in anti-competitive trade practices at their hub airports in Dallas and Atlanta, said the hub system allows them to offer more nonstop services, and has fostered competition and better service.

"We strongly disagree with the proposition that competition can be enhanced by placing enormous power in the hands of the federal government to regulate industry economic practices," James W. Callison, a senior vice president of Delta Airlines, told the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Aviation.

The airlines said they would be willing to consider Danforth's plan to allow a head tax on passengers that could be used for airport expansion projects, but it should be considered during congressional reauthorization of the trust fund that is supposed to finance such improvements.

Danforth, who wants to increase competition with methods that include barring airline ownership of computerized reservation systems and giving the Federal Trade Commission power to police the industry, reacted skeptically to the airlines.

"There used to be a radio character named Miss Blue in St. Louis (on KMOX-AM) whose line was 'All is well,'" Danforth said. "You appear to be saying 'all is well' in the airline industry, but I doubt that is the case because we have a situation that is plainly anti-competitive."

The Missouri Republican cited price increases at Lambert Field, where Trans World Airlines controls 81 percent of the gates, as evidence of anti-competitive practices, and pointed to mass layoffs Monday at Braniff's Kansas City hub as a danger of concentration.

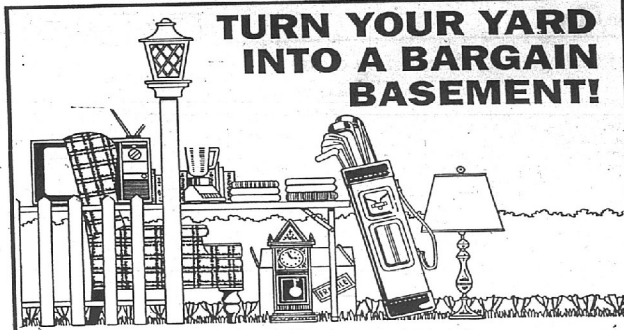

While TWA did not testify at today's hearing, the airline opposes most aspects of Danforth's plan, especially those hostile to hubs, said TWA vice-president Stephen Slade.

"A hub benefits consumers in the sense that you have an enormous variety of flights, and creation of an enormous number of jobs to improve the economy of a hub city," said Slade. "We have consistently argued that fares at hubs are no higher than fares at other airports."

The president of Arizona-based America West Airlines told the subcommittee that unfair competition by larger airlines has hurt his business, and a representative of the Consumer Federation of America agreed with Danforth that concentration is leading to higher fares.

Light rail funds voted

WASHINGTON — President George Bush signed into law legislation containing millions in new funds for a host of Metro East projects Nov. 21, including money for a light rail transit system and repairs on a major Amtrak route.

Among other things, the bill provides $3.5 million in low-interest loans to the Chicago, Missouri and Western Railway to upgrade its roadbed.

The bill also earmarks $67.5 million for continued construction of the Metro Link light rail commuter line which will stretch from Lambert Airport to St. Louis and East St. Louis, as well as a possible extension to Belleville.

"This bill is good for Illinois and southwestern Illinois in particular," said Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte.

"A modern transportation system is one key to greater economic development, and will make our region more attractive for businesses looking to locate here."

The legislation includes $450,000 for a feasibility study of extending the rail line into Belleville, a plan that could potentially link Lambert Airport with a civilian airport at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville. Joint civilian-military use of Scott has been proposed.
